FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS
New Mexico Treatment Courts
Certification Project

1. Why is there a certification process?

The certification process is one element of a quality engagement infrastructure designed to assess the alignment of treatment court programs with best practice standards.

Certification will help programs:
* Measure and ensure alignment with NM standards
* Use consistent, research based criteria for assessing quality
* Demonstrate congruence of programs with legislative funding priorities based on evidence-based practices
* Identify areas for improvement
* Inform the AOC of areas of needed resources, technical assistance, and training

2. How do we prepare for certification?

Since certification measures alignment with the NM Treatment Court Standards approved by NM Supreme Court Order No. 21-8500-002, the best preparation for certification is to become very familiar with the standards.

Some key aspects to readiness include:
* Completion of the NM Treatment Court Quality Engagement Self-Check survey found at this link: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/NM_Treatment-Court_Self-Check_2021 or use the QR Code at right.
* Updated policies and procedures, reviewed by the team and signed by the presiding treatment court judge, that:
  o Reflect current operations
  o Reflect the NM Treatment Court Standards
* Updated / current MOUs signed by all team members that include areas of agreement found in the NM Treatment Court standards. See the MOU Sample Template for more information.
* Updated training logs or other training documentation for each team member that indicate recent professional development relative to the drug court model. See the various Onboarding Professional Development Matrix samples and sample training logs for additional information.

3. How do we know we are ready for certification?

A program is ready for certification when the team is committed to the process and agrees to make best practices a priority.

Certification is:
* A process wherein best practices are reviewed and areas of alignment, as well as potential gaps, are identified, reviewed, and addressed
* An investment in both your team’s understanding of best practices and the application of best practices
* A partnership between the local treatment court and the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) to achieve alignment with the NM Treatment Court Standards

4. When can we start?

Certification “windows” open quarterly throughout the year.

Of course, programs can – and should – begin getting ready as soon as possible. Reviewing and revising policies and procedures can take some time, as can gathering training documents (and perhaps arranging the training), securing MOUs, and collecting other proof documents.

5. How long does the process take?

The length of the process, to a large extent, depends upon the readiness of the program. The pre-application work described in the answer to question #2 can take several months if a program has to create procedures or is just beginning team training. Once the formal process has begun, it will generally take two to three months.

Remember that the local program often decides when to apply for certification; however, movement toward best practices should be an ongoing endeavor.

6. What is the commitment from the team?

Team involvement is an important aspect of the certification process. Although the biggest time commitment will likely be that of the coordinator, the process requires other team members to participate as well.

Team involvement generally involves:
* Working together to complete the initial 82-question survey (this may take anywhere from 40 minutes to a couple of hours depending on how much discussion it generates)
* Each team member taking a 25-question anonymous survey (about 10 minutes)
* Certain team members taking an additional survey of between 5-10 questions (the judge, program manager, community supervision officer, and case manager)
* Reviewing and updating policies and procedures
* Reviewing and signing MOUs
* Receiving and/or documenting training

7. What are the benefits of being certified?

Demonstration of alignment with the NM Treatment Court Standards and national best practices puts your program in the best possible place to see better outcomes and secure the confidence of policymakers, funding sources, the community, and your participants. Further, it allows you to meet the conditions required for continued operation.

Additional benefits include:
* A media release from the AOC to your local media outlets recognizing your efforts and accomplishment as “Certified” or having received a “Provisional Certification”
8. How will certification be used?

The primary function of certification is to demonstrate alignment with the NM Treatment Court Standards, so the certification process is used primarily as an education, development, and resource-identification tool.

Functionally, certification will be used to:
* Recognize programs that are aligned with NM Treatment Court Standards
* Identify programs needing technical assistance
* Help programs identify areas they need to work on or develop further
* Assist the AOC in providing information and support to programs – the AOC will compile training and technical assistance needs based on a summary of certification applications
* Identify a select group of model courts to mentor new programs and provide technical assistance to existing courts

9. What if we cannot become certified?

The certification process exists to certify worthy programs and to get all programs worthy of certification. For any treatment court seeking to follow the NM Treatment Court Standards, the question about certification is not “if,” but “when.”

* Some of the standards are easier to address than others and some of the standards may be aspirational for a time; however, consistent movement toward best practices benefits every stakeholder and becoming certified is simply a by-product of this movement.
* A tiered recognition approach includes five levels of certification based upon the degree of alignment demonstrated. At the end of the review window each program will be awarded one of the following: Platinum, Gold, Silver, Bronze, or Provisional.

10. What should we do when we are ready?

When you are ready to begin, go to the Certification tab at https://treatmentcourts.nmcourts.gov/ and open the “Getting Started” folder. All the instructions are there.
The foundational steps include:

* Review the documents in the “Getting Started” folder, especially the Overview & Instructions, Letter of Intent, Application, and these Frequently Asked Questions.
* Complete the Letter of Intent and submit it to the AOC so they can get you scheduled during the next available certification window.
* Solicit the answers from your treatment provider and drug screener early as this often takes some time to complete. There are questions on the application as well as in the survey.
* Get a start on the survey by answering the basics for your team to review together. As you work through the survey, it will save your answers so you can return to it at any time until you hit the “submit” button. Do not hit submit until you are completely finished with the survey, simply close out of your browser window and the survey will be ready when you open it back up.
* Schedule a time for your team to complete the survey (remember this may take a while, but is important to the education of your team)

11. What, exactly, does the process look like?

The process is generally completed in four or more phases over the course of up to 3 months as noted in the graphic and chart below.

Specific dates will be provided during the Pre-Window Webinar. More detail regarding the process is included in the oo2_Cert-Instructions document.
